For good. For ever.

and the second production of the second second

OUR MISSION:

To provide philanthropic leadership to strengthen our community by fostering collaboration and giving today and in the future.

OUR VISION:

To be the catalyst and recognized leader for community philanthropy.

The essence of a community foundation is many people putting their money together to address the diverse needs where they live. Gifts enable people to dream bigger, to see the many possibilities. As money is endowed, the gifts grow forever, providing ongoing support to help the community prosper.

Community foundations reflect and support donors' wide array of interests and help them address all aspects of community need including arts and culture, economic development, education, environment, health, human services and recreation.

Message From the President

Thank you for joining with us to build a stronger and more vibrant community. In this 2014 annual report, we are excited to share the results of our work together. At the core of this work is our invitation to everyday people with a vision and a passion for community to build something together. For good, forever. Thank you for answering that invitation with your investment in the Midland community.

One hundred years ago, the community foundation concept was born giving rise to a new philanthropy, a new way of participating in community and a new vision for the future. Since its founding in 1973, the Midland Area Community Foundation (MACF) has provided an avenue for individuals and organizations to change the community through philanthropic giving & volunteering.

The well-known philanthropist John D. Rockefeller, said "The best philanthropy is constantly in search of the finalities—a search for a cause, an attempt to cure evils at their source." We thank all of our partners, the nonprofits, educational organizations, governmental units, foundations and individuals, that work together to find the finalities and help shape what we want life to look like in this community. We are pleased to have invested over $3.7 million dollars in this transformational work.

One way of changing our community, of building something together, is through education. Throughout our history, scholarships have been one tool to help promote education. With your help, we invested $437,000 in 2014 to help students continue their education. The establishment of the Midland County Career and College Access Network, designed to help first generation and low-income students complete education beyond high school, is another step in positively shaping our community.

Another way to build our community is through helping nonprofits develop resources for the future. Agencies can establish endowment funds with MACF. These funds are invested and continue to grow, providing long-term sustainable funding for the future.

We appreciate you joining with us in philanthropy as we work to transform this community we all love. Your gifts help us dream bigger and grow forever to help the community prosper. Thank you for building something for good, forever.

DEAR FRIENDS.

Appreciatively,

Sharon Mortensen

These projects helped to transform our community through addressing these critical areas. Learn more at www.midlandcountydashboard.org.

POWER OF YOUTH

CAREER + COLLEGE ACCESS NETWORK

n the Spring of 2014, the community foundation launched the Midland County Career & College Access Network (MCCAN) with the goal of 60% of Midland County residents with a postsecondary degree/credential by 2025.

MCCAN defines college as a postsecondary education, including professional and technical certificates. Encouraging trade and technical training is an important step, says MCCAN Coordinator Valerie Gerhart.

"There's this misguided idea going around that trade schools don't equate with higher education," says Gerhart. "We're doing our part to turn that thinking around."

Upon MCCAN's launch, Gerhart got to work right away convening education professionals from around the county into several committees. Each group is exploring ways to assist students - especially low-income students - navigate the world of postsecondary education.

"Midland County has one of the highest college enrollment rates in the state for high & middle-income students," says

Gerhart. "Unfortunately, there's a flip side. We MIDLAND COUNTY also have one of the largest gaps between that population and low-income families."

Higher-income families often have access to career + college access network tutoring and college prep resources, while children of low-income families often don't > know what questions to ask. MCCAN aims to change that by reaching out to low-income families directly.

Already, MCCAN has been involved in Midland's College Application Week, launched a volunteer peer-mentoring program, and secured funding to hire college advisors for several local schools.

Today, the lowest performing high-income students have better odds of graduating college than the highest performina lowincome students. The community foundation and MCCAN will continue to coordinate efforts to reach out to low-income students in Midland County.

Midland County Youth Action Council

e recently asked Midland County Youth Action Council member (or MCYACer, for short) Michael Dean five questions about his experience with MCYAC.

What's your role in MCYAC?

I'm currently the Projects Chair, which involves me managing any sort of project we do whether it be small service projects, our large community projects, or this year our community foundation basement renovation.

I joined MCYAC in 2010 as a 7th grader with my older sister. My parents heard about MCYAC and thought it would be great for my sister since she was going to be applying for college soon; at the time I felt like I was just dragged into it with her. I think like most people joining MCYAC, I didn't really know what to expect, but the more I went the more I liked what MCYAC does for the community.

What's your favorite part of MCYAC?

My favorite part of MCYAC is the fact that we actually have an impact. This isn't a youth committee with fake power; we actually have the ability to impact the youth in our community through the grants that we approve and we have the financial power to make it matter. It's this sense of actually mattering that makes MCYAC a powerful and eye-opening experience.

In your opinion, what's the greatest grant MCYAC has given since your involvement?

The best grant that MCYAC has given during my time has been the Midnight on Main grant. I liked this grant because it was able to help kickstart what is now a great event that brings people to our downtown area.

Why would you recommend MCYAC to other students?

I would recommend MCYAC to other students because it is a way to have an impact on the lives of your peers. There is not a better way that I know to get out and get involved. Even if you're already involved in similar clubs or organizations, MCYAC lets you take it one step further.

CIDEAS

MIDLAND FUN ZONE

Vour community foundation is dedicated to completing one "big idea" project each calendar year. The goal is to positively impact a large number of people living and working in Midland County.

Our project for 2014 was to renovate the well-loved, well-used Fun Zone playground located within Midland's Plymouth Park. MACF collaborated with the City of Midland, providing grant dollars and fundraising expertise to successfully overhaul the 20 year old structures with over a dozen new components, a shade sail, several benches and picnic tables, accessible play equipment and more.

Well over 1,000 donors and volunteers came together to complete the renovation in June of 2014. Thank you for giving our community greater vibrancy!

Midland: Exploring Our Future

reater Midland County is a community of progress, one Uthat constantly seeks to redefine itself through a process of continuous improvement.

In a grassroots effort to make sure this is an exceptional place where everyone thrives, in 2014 about 100 residents participated in an in-depth process of community reflection. This initiative involved a multi-day process to determine strengths and weaknesses, and pinpoint areas for community enhancement. We also sought input from all of Midland County through online surveys, focus groups and local meetings.

The vision statement chosen for Midland County during the conference was:

Together-Forward-Bold An exceptional place where everyone thrives.

As part of the process, we identified nine key performance areas on which to focus our efforts. These represent the critical areas of focus for successfully achieving the vision. Each area has a team whose role is to identify and implement action plans. The nine areas include economic development, education, infrastructure & environment, arts & culture, social & health services, youth development & engagement, public safety, diversity, and community leadership.

Committees have been established to meet and explore ways to move the needle in each performance area.

Midland County Mayor and Community Success Panel member Maureen Donker participated in the conference and applauded the efforts of participating community members and organizations.

"There's a definite spirit of collaboration in Midland, and that was on full display during this conference," said Donker. "Based on the willingness of these individuals and organizations to collaborate and see these goals realized, I'm excited about the future of this community."

Midland County Administrator/Controller and Community Success Panel member Bridgette Gransden also participated in the meetings.

"These were very well thought out planning sessions," said Gransden. "Now that we've outlined where we need to make changes, the next step is to form implementation teams for each of the priority items."

Tribute to Jim Clark

Teacher, Principal, Volunteer, Dedicated professional, Leader,

Many words come to mind when remembering Jim Clark, but perhaps there's no better word to describe him than "gentleman". Always gracious and civil in conversation, his calm and thoughtful approach gained him the trust and confidence of his peers.

Clark served the Midland Public Schools in a variety of roles from 1951 until his retirement in 1991 As the first president of the Midland Area Community Foundation, he provided essential insight and leadership as MACF gained the support and confidence of donors and volunteers.

> MACE is thankful for men like Jim Clark who have led the way in our community and continue to impact us through their legacy.
